They tend to break at somewhere near the daisy wheel. Either the wheel gets jammed or some type of calibration gets knocked off. I would expect the quality of the typewriter to be better than what we have experienced. Like I stated, this machine has been used very minimally. We probably used it once every two to three months to type some labels. It is a little louder than I expected but it makes me feel like a true author who is cooking up classics when the keys clank. Replacing the ribbon and correction tape was easy and the various symbols on the daisy wheels are helpful. Highly recommended unless you're looking for something quiet. Apparently something, were not sure what, broke and it won't hold the paper. <http://www.oncopathologie.com/userfiles/cuneiform-ocr-manual.xml>

Luckily there is someone local who services Brother, so we didn't have to send it out, but it's still there and will be for probably a week. Our use is light office use, mostly forms that can't be done on the computer. Other than that it was working fine, adequate for our needs, and we were happy with it. We called Brother to troubleshoot and they said it was the Daisywheel and we needed to buy a new wheel and that it was not a part covered under the warranty even though the machine was brand new and this was first time use. I will be returning this and not buying another Brother product if this is the kind of support they offer on their products. Horrible customer service when we called in the problem. He read the instruction and loves using it. My only disappointment is that the print ribbon. My only disappointment is that the print ribbon and correction tape ribbon were completely used up and I had to purchase new ones. Hard to find the correction tape ribbon at stores. Also I was hoping there would be a manual with the typewriter and there wasn't one. Glad that I could still find a typewriter for completing forms. Unfortunately as the typewriter was going to Italy to my aged aunt upon receiving it she could not plug it in and had to buy an adapter but the type writer failed to work. Therefore they ended up replacing the plug on typewriter with a new one. It still did not work. Unfortunately I did not find about any of this until today. As I have been out of the country for the last 5 weeks, so I could not advise her what to do next. As you can imagine I am extremely disappointed with the supplier, and feel that I have been let down as I have bought a lot of items through Amazon and feel at a loss as to how I proceed from here. I would be pleased to know your response on this matter. Yours Steve Lea

My Brother Bradford dates to 1961, 2 and Ryan Adney lists a 1962 Brother Valiant at the typewriter database. 3 The 100 is a basic model, lacking ribbon selector, tabulator and touch control. It included an "attache" carrying case. The 200 and 300 models offered a fuller set of features. Sometime around 1964, it was offered with a gloss coat finish. Subsequently, it was offered with a different leather carrying case and then a snap case. According to ads, the snap case was introduced in 1966, but I've seen machines dating to 1965 with it. Whoever owned this one originally drew the dots in dashes on it. The Brother Valiant was sold at Gambles — see here and here. From the 1960s through the 1980s, Japanesebased Brother sold more than 10 million typewriters, quality machines that were offered under a. I love the Morse Code on the keys. Whoever did that did a fine job. Unless I look really close at a few keys the code looks like it came from the factory.

A real challenge would be to add the numbers and punctuation in very tiny dots and dashes. Except for the previous owner's dedication, the dots and dashes would have diminished the value of the typewriter. I've seen one of those while thrifting before, but it was pretty rough, not worth picking up. And I love that it has the morse code marks on it! Learn how your comment data is processed. Thank you! The ink has run out and I cant seem to find the correct ribbons if you can help. Many thanks. Ink ribbon for Brother AX100 Any of the ink ribbons listed on this page will work in the Brother AX100 typewriter so you should select whichever ribbon would suit your requirements depending on the ribbon type, capacity and cost. We currently stock a genuine Brother 1030 correctable film ribbon or a genuine Brother 1032 nylon ribbon of similar cost. Although the 1032 ribbon will last longer it doesn't offer a correctable tape. We also stock a cheaper premium brand Brother 1030 correctable ribbon for use in the AX100 electronic typewriter.
